Fig. 5 An "F"-like model rendered through the depth-peeling technique is depicted in (a). (b) is a schematic diagram depicting depth peeling [5], where differently colored curves express that the model is peeled into multiple layers. A portion of the 3D storage structure that is used to store the z-depthes of fragments is shown in (c).